To Honor Dead Chaplains Who Gave Own Lifebelts To Troops

The U.S. Army's Distinguished Service Cross has been conferred posthumously on four chaplains who gave courage and their own lifebelts to others aboard a sinking troop transport.

The decorations will be presented to the next of kin by Lieutenant General Brehon Somervell, commander of the Army Service Forces, at the Fort Myer, Va., chapel on December 19. A national radio program "Service to the Front," will dramatize the action aboard the Dorchester on December 19, beginning at 10 p.m. Eastern war time, over the Columbia Broadcasting System.

The War Department said that the awards went to the four chaplains who died when the transport Dorchester was torpedoed in icy seas off Greenland in the darkness of the morning of Feb. 3, 1943. The chaplains, all with the Army rank of first lieutenant, were:

Clark V. Poling, Schenectady, N.Y., son of Dr. Daniel Poling, editor of "The Christian Herald."

John P. Washington, son of Mrs. Mary Washington, Newark, N.J.

Rabbi Alexander D. Goode, husband of Mrs. Theresa F. Goode, of Washington, D.C.

George L. Fox, husband of Mrs. George Fox, of Chicopee Falls, Mass.

The Army said that survivors reported that four of the men made many aboard the Dorchester almost helpless because they were convinced that death awaited them if they went overside. The chaplains, the Army said, "refused their

...been prejudiced, had been obliged to accept the platform of enemy nationalists." Much could be done through the good offices of the United States to clear up this matter, he declared.

Buenos Aires Jews To Raise $250,000 For Relief

Joseph C. Hyman, Executive Vice-Chairman of the American Jewish Joint Distribution Committee, major American agency for relief to distressed Jews overseas, announced a "major development in the assistance provided by Jewish communities in South America to their suffering co-religionists in Europe."

This development came in the announcement of the opening of a campaign directed by the Junta Ayuda Pro Victimas de la Guerra (Council of Jewish Aid to War Victims) of Buenos Aires, to raise a minimum of $250,000 for the relief and rehabilitation of Jews in liberated areas.

Funds appropriated by the Junta will be distributed by the J.D.C. through its representatives abroad, thus affirming a cooperative working program. The Junta was the first Jewish organization in South America to extend direct assistance to liberated Poland, by transmitting an initial sum of $10,000 to J.D.C.'s representative in Teheran for the shipment of supplies from the J.D.C. warehouse there. Recently the Junta has assisted in the J.D.C. program of rescuing thousands of refugees from the Balkan areas to Palestine by contributing $30,000.

The Junta, which consists of a cross-section of all Jewish forces in Argentina, has served to give the local Jewish communities an opportunity to provide help to their surviving European brethren on a non-political basis, in keeping with the traditional policy of the ...Jewish community of Buenos Aires for funds to be used for distressed Jews in Hungary as soon as that country is liberated. Such funds, it was indicated, would be distributed through the J.D.C.

Other Jewish communities in Latin American countries, including Ecuador, Uruguay, Guatemala, Mexico, Chile and Brazil are increasing their support to the J.D.C. program of overseas aid.

Says U.S. Jewry Now Leads

The destiny of the Jewish people throughout the world now rests with "active and responsible leadership" from the American Jews, Dr. Ignacy Schwarzbart of the Polish National Council in London told the American Jewish Conference at Pittsburgh, Pa.

Dr. Schwarzbart was one of three speakers from abroad. The sessions included a six-hour debate on proposals before the conference. Principal among these was the future course of the group, which was organized fifteen months ago on a temporary basis.

"After the 2,000 years of our common history," Dr. Schwarzbart said, "the time for you in America has come to take into your hands the active and responsible leadership of our Jewish destiny. If you accept this mission then the Jewish people will be saved; if not, then we are doomed to a miserable existence."

Among the tasks which he placed before the 500 delegates were those of rebuilding "enormous cultural, religious and national spiritual treasures" destroyed by the Germans in Poland.

Saying that he wished to reaffirm the murder of more than 6,000,000 Jews by the Nazis, Dr. Schwarzbart explained that "remnants of Jewish communities in Poland await a creative ability of all positive Jewish forces in the great American democracy."

Alexander L. Easterman, secretary of the British section of the World Jewish Congress, said that if proof were needed of "the indivisibility of the Jewish people, Hitler has furnished it." He added:

"Jews and Jewish organizations must sink their differences or they will be in danger of sinking with the differences."

Dr. Bernard Joseph, legal adviser for the Jewish Agency for Palestine, said that there was "an urgent need resulting from the tragedy which has overtaken the

Christians Refute Arab Anti-Zionist Argument

The Christian Council on Palestine announced that it had sent to President Roosevelt a telegram "refuting the anti-Zionist arguments expressed recently by the Conference of Americans of Arabic-speaking origin."

The telegram was signed by Dr. Henry A. Atkinson, general secretary of the Church Peace Union; Dr. Carl J. Friedrich, Professor of Government at Harvard University; Dr. Daniel A. Poling, president of the World Christian Endeavor Union, and others.

"The democratic ideas which have been expressed by the Americans of Arabic-speaking origin obviously do not reflect the concepts of the Palestine Arab political leaders," the message said. "These leaders have talked and acted in terms of Arab domination.

"It is absurd to say that Arab Palestine has 'accepted' Jewish immigrants and refugees. Jews have come into Palestine during the last twenty-five years despite the intransigeant opposition of the Arab political leaders. They have not come by consent of the Arabs, but by the sanction of international law in accordance with the League of Nations mandate and with the approval of our own Government and by Act of Congress."

U.J.A. Issues Emergency Appeal For Funds

...executive committee of its agencies, called upon Jewish communities of America to provide a supplementary fund of between $4,000,000 and $5,000,000 to meet the "irresistible pressure" of the war and reconstructive needs of the Joint Distribution Committee and the United Palestine Appeal."

Thus far this year the sum of $25,000,000 has been distributed among the constituent agencies of the 1944 United Jewish Appeal for Refugees, Overseas Needs and Palestine. Of this sum $15,000,000 was divided on the basis of the original agreement for the 1944 campaign and the balance was distributed in accordance with the decisions of the Allotment Committee which met recently. The U.J.A. estimated that the final total income of the 1944 campaign would be $27,000,000 or $28,000,000. This, the Allotment Committee emphasized, will involve a "shortage of between $4,000,000 and $5,000,000 without taking into account other urgent demands."

In a special letter addressed to community leaders throughout the country, the members of the Allotment Committee said that although the sole function of the Committee is the distribution of available funds, "we could not, in the light of our close examination of the facts of irresistible need and the situation so striking in its demand for extraordinary action, ignore the responsibility of presenting the problem to the Jewish communities of America." In calling for supplementary action, the Committee explained that it was making its plea in order that "some of the projects which affect the fate of thousands of persons should be jeopardized for lack of funds." The Committee declared that it was not its intention to support any new campaign during the current year, but expressed the view that "such communities may find resources with which to add as substantially as possible to the appropriation already made in the 1944 United Jewish Appeal."

This is the first time in the history of the United Jewish Appeal, which was established in 1939, that an Allotment Committee has made a direct appeal to communities for additional funds for its constituent agencies.

Commenting on its findings after examining all phases of the expenditures of the agencies of the United Jewish Appeal, the Allotment Committee said that it was "impressed with the comprehensiveness, skill, and devotion with which these agencies are attempting to meet the problem in their respective fields within the

W. J. C. Elects Wise; Hears Demand For Vengeance Against German Nation

Rabbi Stephen S. Wise of New York was elected unanimously president of the World Jewish Congress, meeting in Atlantic City, N.J. He was chairman of its executive committee, one of its founders in 1936 and, by this election became the first president of the organization.

The War Emergency Conference of the World Jewish Congress, attended by 300 delegates from forty countries, adopted a declaration setting forth the stand of world Jewry on international policy.

The delegation asserted the following were specific Jewish needs:

1. Declaration as null and void of all measures of discrimination against Jews and the full restoration of their rights and status.

2. Recognition of the particular needs of the Jewish people in the application of relief and rehabilitation measures within the scheme of post-war reconstruction.

3. Apprehension, trial and punishment of the instigators and perpetrators of the crimes against Jews and Jewish people since 1933.

4. Restitution and reparation for losses suffered by Jewish communities and individual victims of Nazi and Fascist murder and spoliation.

5. Recognition of the principle that the Jewish people are entitled to a collective reparation for the material and moral losses suffered by the Jewish people, its institutions or individual Jews who are unable to present their individual claims.

6. Establishment of Palestine as a Jewish commonwealth.

The ...

His report added fuel to a heated debate that occupied the convention over the demand of Dr. Joseph Tenenbaum, of New York, president of the American Federation of Polish Jews, for vengeance against the German nation. Dr. Tenenbaum, a member of the executive committee of the Congress, voiced his demand despite what appeared to be a majority opinion among the committee for maintaining support of United Nations plans for trial and punishment of war criminals.

"Am I agitating for revenge?" Dr. Tenenbaum asked the conference. "Of course I desire vengeance. I call for revenge for the murder of my people. A nation outraged in helpless fury as were our people by the German barbarians cannot redress itself with adequate retribution. No nation or people can live with an outrage of this extent and savagery left unpunished and unredressed.

"The entire German nation is culpable. The entire German nation must pay for the crime of wiping a whole people from occupied countries and of endeavoring to wipe them entirely from the face of the earth."

Dr. Nahum Goldmann, of New York, chairman of the administrative committee of the Congress, pointed up Mr. Robinson's ... with the warning to the ... that it must not ... terms of European ... existed before the war.

Lots Of Despots

Toronto Saturday Night says:

Things will be rather dreadful in this country if many of our municipal and provincial authorities of various sorts take upon themselves the function recently adopted by the Toronto Police Commission, of deciding what racial origins shall be demanded of people licensed to carry on trades in the municipality. The Commission refused such licenses to two applicants last week solely on the ground of their ancestry. One was a German by ancestry, the other a Japanese. One was an electrician, the other a radio man. The German had been in Canada since 1930. The Japanese was born in Canada, and is consequently a British subject by birth.

This sort of thing can be done by any authority which has the licensing power in its hands, if it wants to do it. A permit to build a residence may be refused in Forest Hill because the applicant is Russian, or in Quebec City because he is English. It might even come in time that nobody who is not a member of the Orange Order can operate a street organ in Toronto, and nobody who is not a member of the Order of Jacques Cartier can run a newsstand in Hull.

Ottawa has had to take on a good deal of added authority in recent years because the nation is fighting a war. The spirit of taking added authority tends to spread. It shouldn't. The Police Commissioners of Canada's second largest city ought to appreciate the dangers of arbitrary action, but apparently they don't.

An interesting feature of the case is that the decisions were arrived at after hearing representations by the Business Men's Associations of the districts in which the applicants desired to trade. We have the deepest respect for Business Men's Associations in their proper sphere, but that sphere is not advising us to what races shall do plumbing and electrical work in Toronto. That question is one of very large national, and indeed international, import, and the Business Men's Associations are no experts on it. Besides it is barely possible that the prospect of added competition is not attractive to them.

Bnai Brith Hillel Foundations Number 48

Bnai Brith's Hillel Foundation movement began its 22nd year of service this month with 48 full-time Foundations operating in 34 states and three Canadian provinces, according to an announcement by Henry Monsky, president of Bnai Brith, and Dr. A. L. Sachar, national director of the Hillel Foundations.

These Hillel units are serving civilian student populations at most of the great universities and whatever military student contingents are still stationed on Hillel campuses. The Hillel Foundations are manned by full-time directors and have complete facilities while the Hillel Counselorships function with part-time directors and more limited facilities.

Despite war-time manpower and enrollment pressures, Hillel began the new college year by opening six new full-time Foundations, including two in Canada at the Universities of Manitoba (Winnipeg) and McGill (Montreal). New Foundations were also established at the University of Pennsylvania and Temple University, both in Philadelphia, while the Hillel Counselorships at the University of Maine and Tufts University, Medford, Mass., have been converted into full-time Foundations.

The new college year also finds many of the Hillel units having acquired or in the process of acquiring their own homes.

To fill vacancies caused by the resignation of directors who entered the chaplaincy, were called to the active rabbinate or were assigned to the new Hillel units, 11 new men joined Hillel directors, while eight others already in Hillel were given new assignments.

An initial gift of $75,000 from Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Baumgarten, of Hinsdale, Michigan, to the Bnai Brith Hillel Foundation movement for the erection of a permanent home for the Foundation at Northwestern University, Evanston, Illinois, was announced.

The largest single individual gift ever received by Bnai Brith in its 101-year history, the contribution from Mr. and Mrs. Baumgarten will be used to build the Joseph and Gertrude Baumgarten House. Mr. Baumgarten indicated that this gift was "only a down payment" on the Baumgarten House and that he and Mrs. Baumgarten would add to their contribution to provide for furnishing the house.

In announcing the record gift of the Baumgartens, Mr. Monsky said that they were stimulated to make this contribution by a desire to encourage their sons to take an active interest in Jewish affairs. One of the Baumgarten boys is in the Army and the other is about to graduate from Culver Military Academy. The latter son is likely to attend a college where there is a Bnai Brith Hillel Foundation.

When the ship poised for the final plunge, the four men, representing the Protestant, Catholic, and Jewish faiths, linked their arms and prayed together.

The Army's Chief of Chaplains, Brig. Gen. William Arnold, pays this tribute:

"The extraordinary heroism and devotion of these men of God has been an unwavering beacon for the thousands of chaplains of the armed forces. Their example has inspired and strengthened men everywhere. The manner of their dying was one of the most noble deeds of the war.

"Two of the chaplains — Chaplains Poling and Fox—were Protestants. Chaplain Washington was a Catholic. Chaplain Goode was Jewish. The churches of America can be proud that such men carried their banners into this war, and men of all faiths can be proud that these men of different faiths died together."

By Dr. Harry J. Stern, Rabbi

(Impressions of the World Jewish Congress Emergency Conference held in Atlantic City)

The Torah portion for this Sabbath which introduces us to the cycle of Joseph stories contains a precious classic phrase. To the query of the stranger who found Joseph wandering in the field, "What seekest thou?", Joseph dramatically replies: "Es Achai Ani Mevakesh" "I seek my brethren".

Jewish representatives of thirty-two countries came together despite the difficulties of travel in a war-torn world. They met to deliberate upon the manifold problems confronting Jewry in its darkest hour. That in itself is most significant! But a more significant fact is "the drama of reunion" which took place at the Atlantic City Conference. Brothers from distant lands speaking strange tongues sought each other out. They looked into each other's eyes and listened to each other's voices. They found comfort in the personal sharing of thought and prayer and the communion of Jewish fellowship.

It was but natural, and certainly in keeping with Jewish tradition, that under the burden of that great catastrophe which has befallen the Jewish people the conference opened with the kindling of the Yahrzeit light, the recital of psalms, the Yizkor and the Kaddish prayer. The ritual of mourning was conducted by the venerable Chief Rabbi of Yugoslavia, Dr. Alkali. The large assemblage was indeed moved to tears. Here in this service of mourning was dramatized the story of the terrible Jewish tragedy that has overtaken our people with the rise of Nazism.

We listened to stirring addresses by the leaders of the World Jewish Congress, Dr. Wise and Dr. Goldmann. For two straight days in what is known as "the general debate" we received reports from delegates of respective countries as to the status and condition of Jewish life in their lands.

The experts of the Congress Institute laid before the delegates the facts resulting from the Nazi blood bath. The balance sheet, apart from the losses in combat service, shows that 5,500,000 Jews were killed in Germany and German-occupied territories, while in but two years, 1942-1944, alone 1,750,000 Jews perished between the years 1942-1944.

We may ask as did ask a number of delegates, whose fault is it? Beginning with 1933 we knew something of the Nazi program of extermination. Jewish leaders warned the heads of democratic states that Hitler was engaged upon a most diabolic plan. We begged that something be done to ameliorate the life of Jewry within Germany. But the great democratic leaders claimed that what is happening is an internal problem within a sovereign state and cannot be interfered with.

When Jewish leaders suggested evacuation of Jews from German territory, then routine and red tape held sway. Immigration to free lands—that, too, was an "internal problem" for each respective country. And the hope that thousands of fellow-Jews might be rescued from the hell of Nazi Europe and be brought to Palestine was shattered by the British policy of appeasement toward the Arabs.

Thus when Jews were in need of Palestine most, the doors were thrown shut! We are grateful for what was done by the democracies. But, frankly, what was done in behalf of persecuted Israel was too little and too late. The conduct of the great democracies in regard to Israel's tragedy does not indicate a proud record.

There were some at this historic war conference who rightly pointed the finger of accusation against our own generation of Jews. Choteau—we Jews of free lands are not guiltless! We might have achieved much more in the work of rescue but we were not wise enough. We, too, failed our own brethren. We did not rise to heights of great sacrifice. We of the Americas failed to rise to the summons of the tragic hour.

The architects of the new world order are now busily engaged in shaping that new world. We met in Atlantic City to formulate a Jewish program of action so that we would not be forgotten by these architects, so that these might come to see the special Jewish problems in the world. Surely, our first demand is the restoration of Jewish rights in lands where such individual rights have been abrogated. That Jewish property be restored. Of course, that property of individuals dead and Jewish communal property be returned to a Jewish agency which is to be organized for Jewish rehabilitation. We ask that those who perpetrated the horrible persecution of Jews be indicted and punished. We demand this not as a matter of revenge.

We Jews are not a vengeful people. Our religious tradition has long ago laid down the injunction that "Vengeance is of the Lord". But we are most anxious that persecution of Jews as well as of other minorities be indicted for all time to come sealed and that the world's moral balance be restored. And still another Jewish demand is that Israel be represented in the Councils of Nations. We Jews ought to be consulted—when actions deal with Jewish problems. We wish no favours from the mighty. We ask that these deal in justice with us.

All through the deliberations one fact stood out above all else, the urgency of ending once and for all Jewish national homelessness. Hence the concept of Palestine as the democratic Jewish commonwealth loomed very large in all discussions. Palestine in truth is thus the great light in the present thick darkness.

What shall be the attitude of Jews to Germany? This question was debated. It was most dramatic to hear German Jewish leaders call upon Jews to vow that for the next hundred years Jews should never step on German soil again. Have not Jews vowed not to set foot in Spain for centuries because of their martyrdom there in days of the Inquisition? Then must our reaction be to the land and people which invented "the scientific factories of death". We ask therefore that governments do not compel German Jews to return to Germany. If individual Jews choose to go to this land of their former citizenship the burden rests upon them.

A splendid impression was created upon the conference by the delegates from the Latin-American countries. All South American lands had their delegations except Brazil. It was good to hear the reports of splendid establishment of Jewish life in the Argentine, Peru, Uruguay, Chile, Costa Rica and Mexico. It was good to learn that the Sephardic Jews work in close co-operation with the Ashkenazim. But the Latin-American countries look for inspiration and guidance from the North American Jewish community. Canada has a semblance of unity. But what about the great powerful Jewish community of the United States? Why is there no central body speaking for all groups of Americans on Israel? This question was heard often.

The conference opened with the Kaddish and Yizkor memorial. But it closed with the Hatikvah. We spoke not as a broken people. We spoke with courage and hope. The future tremendously is still uncertain. But one faith substantiated by history is ours. Those who have sought to destroy Israel have ever stumbled and will continue to stumble and fall.

We who dwell in the Americas, we "the Josephs", God has placed us here to take up the responsibility of continuing the struggle for Israel's survival. History has thus placed upon us a great honor. May we prove worthy. May we now seek out our brethren, the remnants of European Jewry, and help to heal their wounds and help to rebuild Jewish life. Above all, let us stand united with our Jewish brethren everywhere to fight for equal recognition as a people and for human liberation everywhere.

"Sometimes when people accuse me,
I sit them without answer
That for what it cost me to be free,
I might have had an easier."

The outlawing of a secret brotherhood in South Africa by Premier Smuts makes it timely to examine some of the elements in the political pattern affecting the Jewish situation there. This brotherhood, the make-up of which consists of prominent men, is behind numerous activities which are exploiting nationalist sentiment to gain domination. To gain domination, Nazi methods are being used but only the methods are new. Nationalism in South Africa is not new and neither is the ambition of the nationalists.

The Nationalist Party expects to go from strength to strength and relies upon its use of the nationalist sentiment to carry it to the top. Such a scheme has room for anti-Semitism, and those who foster it have learned with Nazi help how to increase nationalist solidarity and numbers through racial hatred. The slogans they echo are imported, incorporating all the familiar screeches against the Jews, the British, the democracies, the Bolsheviks.

Up to now Premier Smuts seems to have followed what appears to be, on the surface, anyway, a laissez faire policy toward a Fascist campaign while the government is engaged in a war on Fascism. However, an army had to be built, without conscription, and war industries have been established, and so the political situation had to ride, no doubt. A London Jewish Chronicle observer has guessed, too, that Premier Smuts considered it good tactics to leave the four rival opposition groups alone to fight each other rather than to unite them all against his United Party Government by fighting all four himself.

The most moderate group, which believed in English-Dutch cooperation, was eliminated. The two most extreme groups, which exhibit all the Nazi trimmings, remain; also the middle group, the largest and the most powerful, the Nationalist Party, led by Dr. Malan, formerly Minister of the Interior. The Malanites are the opposition to the United Party of Premier Smuts. Their party, the Nationalist Party, is officially anti-Semitic. It has been gathering up its rivals into its own machine and they have thus not been eliminating each other but have been consolidating toward a single Afrikaner bloc.

Add to all that the fact that in the United Party itself there is plenty of latent anti-Semitism. It has members who grouse against the Jewish competition as presented by a mere one hundred thousand of population, like the Nationalist Party which tries to disrupt good relations between Jewish traders and Afrikaans (Dutch) farmers. After all, where there are eight million colored people and only two million whites, these latter are not going to espouse a cause against racialism, the very instrument of their own supremacy and superiority, no matter what political party they are in. Racialism is the policy of the country because of the blacks, and there is enough of it to go around for the Jews, the British, and the Russians. And color prejudice and the idea of white dominance provide receptive ground for the seed of all other race hatreds.

Even if this brotherhood is outlawed now and even if its activities, such as excluding Jews from the medical school of a university, and installing Malanites everywhere should cease; and even if they haven't really meant everything they said, or threatened to establish in practice as well as theory; and even if all of this advocacy of Nazi teachings was only political and adopted to oppose the Government, the fact remains that the Jewish situation in South Africa is less secure than it was because of the widespread, poisonous and violent Nazi propaganda which the Nationalist Party lavishly used to gain a following during the past years. For its own purposes it deliberately stirs the minds of the youth. It disseminates a penetrating kind of poison which corrupted the hater as it wounded the hated. It will take a long time to eradicate the far-reaching effects of such teachings.

ity" had blinded them to the needs of other Jewish communities."

"Yet who will predict," Dr. Goldstein asked, "that the physical security of American Jews will remain untouched in the post-war turmoil?"

Captain Pierre Dreyfus, son of the famous Captain Alfred Dreyfus, and one of the representatives of the committee of French Jewry to the Congress, praised the government of General Charles De Gaulle and assured the delegates that France would restore "equality for all citizens."

The arrest and trial by Allied military authorities of all members of the Gestapo and Schutzstaffel in the liberated areas was urged in an address by Alexander L. Easterman of London, chairman of the conference Commission on the punishment of war criminals, who said "there can be no peace and security as long as large numbers of self-confessed criminals are allowed at large."

It was recommended that the joint planning committee try to establish a relationship of cooperation with the Jewish Agency for Palestine. The Congress also voted "the re-establishment in each liberated country at the first possible moment of an organized Jewish community on democratic lines and affiliated with the World Jewish Congress." It favored also the creation in countries, where such a group does not already exist, of a representation on a democratic basis of the organized Jewish communities.

"The task of relief and rehabilitation of Jewish survivors of Nazi atrocities is primarily one of the Allied Governments," Marcus Ragalsky of Buenos Aires asserted. He proposed the subordination of relief activities by the Jewish private agencies to those of the various governments so that Jewish funds could be used largely for "the cultural and spiritual revival of the destroyed Jewish communities in Europe."

He stressed the right of Jewish immigrants to take with them their property, and said that cooperation of the governments should be obtained wherever possible so that the many parentless children in the liberated areas and in enemy countries could be brought to Palestine "under the care and auspices of the Jewish people."

A subcommittee on cultural rehabilitation recommended the establishment of [illegible] of the moral and cultural life of Jews in liberated countries by educational methods.

The United Nations should insist in the peace negotiations on the abrogation of anti-racial and anti-religious legislation in all countries under Nazi influence, and make sure of the restoration of the full legal status of minorities, the political committee of the World Jewish Congress declared.

The committee expressed the belief that peace would be achieved only if the United Nations take the necessary steps to repair the wrongs done to religious and racial minorities in Germany and the satellite countries. It said the new Governments in the liberated countries must restore the legal rights taken away by the Nazis from minorities, and that the re-establishment of these rights should be retroactive to the date of the enactment of the discriminatory legislation.

In order to safeguard the carrying out of the restoration of these rights, the committee urged that no nation should be admitted to membership of the World Security Organization unless it was certified by an appropriate committee or agency to have complied with the demands of the organization.

In its statement on the re-establishment of Jewish rights in Germany, the committee stated:

"The advent of the Nazis to power in Germany was accompanied by an assault of the rights, individual and communal, of the Jews of the Reich, which has culminated in the total destruction of their legal status. They have been placed outside of the protection of the courts and have for all practical purposes been reduced to the position of outlaws.

The war crimes committee told the congress that the re-establishment of ordered society in Europe required that "the Axis criminals shall be brought to justice without delay."

"There can be no peace so long as large numbers of self-confessed criminals are allowed to be at large and by their very presence to mock the promises of a new and better international order made by the spokesmen of democracy," the committee said. "Moreover, if those who are guilty of monstrous crimes against the Jewish people are allowed to escape punishment, it cannot but have the effect of encouraging adventurers in the post-war world to use Anti-Semitism as a means of obtaining power and thereafter as an instrument of aggression."

On the question of relief and rehabilitation, the committee in charge of this phase of activity called attention to the importance of the problem of resettlement and the need of taking immediate steps looking to its early solution.

"In the work of resettlement both in Palestine and elsewhere," the committee stated, "the Intergovernmental Committee for Refugees and the United Nations Relief and Rehabilitation Administration will be called upon to [illegible] nations much [illegible] which have [illegible]
